Day Hagan Logix Smart Value

The Day Hagan Logix Smart Value strategy is a sub-advised portfolio Managed by Day Hagan Asset Management, which views dividends as an objective, controlled means of valuation, as earnings are often subjective and uncorrelated to future corporate performance. Companies that have a history of consistent dividend payouts, balance sheet strength and sound corporate fundamentals have proven resilient to downturns and are considered valuable during up-moves.

- » Tactically allocates assets based on the “weight-of-the-evidence” – an approach that considers the highest probability of success and believes that cash should be utilized as a defensive asset class when suitable “buy” candidates are not available.
- » Diversification is important; single industry exposure is limited to 20% of the portfolio at cost and single equity exposure is limited to 5% of the portfolio at cost.
- » Favors industries with relatively high dividend yields, low debt, strong cash flows, good margins and the ability to maintain and grow the dividend payout. Fundamental screens eliminate companies with questionable balance sheets.

Alternative Investment Strategy Options

Important Information Concerning Alternative Investment Strategies

As a registered investment advisor, CWM, LLC and its investment advisor representatives may only offer alternative investment products that are offered on a “RIA Only” only basis. No sales based compensation (commission) is paid on these types of investments.

Investment Adviser Representatives may only offer alternative investment products that have been reviewed and approved by the firm’s investment committee.

Alternative Investments are privately offered investment vehicles that are unregistered private investment funds or pools that may invest in many different markets, strategies and instruments (including securities, non-securities and derivatives) and are NOT subject to the same regulatory requirements as mutual funds, including mutual fund requirements to provide certain periodic and standardized pricing and valuation information to investors. There are substantial risks in investing in Alternative Investments.

- » Alternative Investments are speculative investments that involve a high degree of risk. An investor could lose all or a substantial portion of his/her investment. Investors must have the financial ability, sophistication/experience and willingness to bear the risks of an investment in an Alternative Investment.
- » An investment in an Alternative Investment is typically illiquid in nature and there will be significant restrictions on liquidating or transferring interests in an Alternative Investment. There is currently no established secondary market for an investor’s investment in an Alternative Investment and none is expected to develop.
- » Any investment in Alternative Investment should be discretionary capital set aside strictly for long term speculative purposes.
- » An investment in an Alternative Investment is not suitable or desirable for all investors. Only qualified eligible investors may invest in Alternative Investments.
- » Alternative Investment offering documents are not reviewed or approved by federal or state regulators and the offering of fund interests will not be federally or state registered.
- » Some Alternative Investments may have little or no operating history or performance and may use hypothetical or pro-forma performance which may not reflect actual trading done by the manager or advisor and should be reviewed carefully. Investors should not place undue reliance on hypothetical or pro-forma performance.
- » An Alternative Investment’s manager or advisor has total discretionary authority over the activities of the Alternative Investment.
- » Alternative Investments are not required to provide periodic pricing or valuation information to investors.
- » Some Alternative Investments may provide little or no transparency regarding their underlying investments to investors.
- » Alternative Investments which make private equity investments have certain different risks, generally including, among other things, no or limited redemption rights; illiquid portfolios and valuation difficulties; asset, market or industry concentration; portfolio company risks including competition and fluctuating distributions; operational and control risks including “key-man” risk; particular industry risks including retail business risks; and financing or additional funding risks.
- » An Alternative Investment’s fees (including advisory fees and placement agent, distribution and/or portfolio acquisition fees) and expenses, which may be substantial regardless of any positive return, will offset the Alternative Investment’s investment profits. If an Alternative Investment’s investments are not successful, these payments and expenses may, over a period of time, deplete the net asset value of the fund.

- » Alternative Investment Funds may be leveraged (including highly leveraged), which increases risk, and an Alternative Investment Fund's performance may be volatile.
- » Some Alternative Investment Funds may use a single advisor or employ a single strategy, which could mean a lack of diversification and higher risk.
- » Some Alternative Investment Funds and their advisors rely on the investment expertise and experience of third-party advisors, the identity of which may not be disclosed to investors.
- » Alternative Investment Funds and their managers/advisors may be subject to various conflicts of interest, including with respect to decisions which may affect their compensation.
- » The net asset value of an Alternative Investment Fund may be determined by its administrator and/or its manager. Certain portfolio assets may be illiquid and without a readily ascertainable market value. The value assigned to such securities may differ from the value an Alternative Investment Fund is able to realize. Instances of mispriced portfolios, due to fraud or negligence, have occurred in the industry.
- » Some Alternative Investment Funds may enter into swaps, futures, forwards, options and other derivative transactions for various hedging and/or speculative purposes that can result in more volatile fund performance.
- » Some Alternative Investment Funds may trade commodity interests or may execute a substantial portion of trades on foreign exchanges, which may increase risk of loss and material economic conditions and/or events may affect future results.
- » Some Alternative Investment Funds may involve complex tax structures, which should be reviewed carefully.
- » Some Alternative Investment Funds may involve structures or strategies that may cause delays in important tax information being sent to investors.

This summary of certain risks is not a complete list of the risks and other important disclosures involved in investing in an Alternative Investment is subject to the more complete disclosures, including risk factors, contained in a specific Alternative Investment's respective offering documents, which must be reviewed carefully. An Alternative Investment past performance is not indicative and is no guarantee of its future performance.

Due to the unique structure of fee-based Alternative Investment products, the account custodian holding, monitoring and providing reporting services for a particular non-traded alternative investment vehicle may charge a service fee to the client's account. Different custodians may charge different fees for providing such monitoring and reporting services. This fee may be waived at the sole discretion of the advisor. Factors in determining if services fees will be waived for a particular client may include the market value of the client's assets being managed, complexity of the client's portfolio, the client's financial situation, level of portfolio trading activity, anticipated future assets, the relationship of the client to the advisor, and additional services requested or performed for the client. Fee waivers or discounts which are not available to clients may also be available for the Owners, Directors, Officers and Associated Persons of CWM, LLC and our related companies as well as to family members and friends of associated persons of CWM. If fees are waived for a client, the investment advisor representative may pay the service fee on behalf of the client. The ability to waive the imposition of these service fees creates a conflict of interest because the investment advisor representative may waive the service fee for a particular client and may not waive the service fee for another client, in the advisor's sole discretion.

The relevant information, terms and conditions of an investment in a particular alternative investment, including the management fee to be paid to the manager, suitability considerations, the investment strategy and risk factors, are described in the Alternative Investment offering documents. Those documents include the Private Offering memorandum, Partnership Agreement, Subscription Agreement and other important materials or forms, which each subscriber is required to receive and/or execute prior to being accepted as an investor of the Alternative Investment.

Stone Ridge Opportunities Fund

The Stone Ridge Opportunities Fund was created to take advantage of an opportunity in the reinsurance market, which is the most distressed it has been over the last 30 years as the January 2023 renewal season approaches due to three things: Demand Outstripping Supply, Decreased Reinsurer Book Values and Inability to Raise Equity Capital aka “Hard Reinsurance Market.” The fund will be a strategic capital provider to reinsurers at a time when their balance sheets are stretched due to poor performance of the equity and fixed markets in 2022. This is a thematic, opportunistic investment that should be viewed as a TRADE due to the short time horizon (1-3 years) that is for Qualified Purchasers only.

While investors can submit notice to redeem on October 15th each calendar year as long as the opportunity exists for the following year, they may not receive full redemption proceeds for a long period of time as the timing of full payment is dependent on the performance of the fund. Investment in the Fund involves a heightened degree of risk. The investment is considered illiquid, so investors will not be able to access funds invested. The relevant information, terms and conditions of an investment in the Fund, including the management fee to be paid to the manager, suitability considerations, the Fund's investment strategy and risk factors, are described in the Fund's documents. Those documents include the Private Offering Memorandum, Subscription Agreement and other important materials or forms, which each subscriber is required to receive and/or execute prior to being accepted as an investor of the Fund.
